Kent's Timber Assets Listed

Kent's timber assets comprise 39,000 acres of woodland, or approximately 21 percent of the county's total area, Warren Spencer, assistant director for forest for Kent and Queen Anne's, told the Chestertown Rotary Club Monday night.

This acreage, he said, produces 1.5 million board-feet per year which is marketed for about $30,000. Mr. Spencer added that in addition to the timber, sold, this wooded land had great value as wildlife cover, and attraction to sportsmen; was rich in the loss of top soil and minerals; and as a general recreational attraction.

Edwin C. Fry was in charge of the program.

A series of "slides" illustrated the weeding and reforestation methods by which, according to expert projections, the national need for at least twice the present timber capacity can be created by the year 2000. Spencer urged timberland owners to explore the advantages of good forestry practices, re-planting, and planned cutting in order to realize maximum profits and land improvement.

On Friday, January 29, 24 men and two trucks responded to a 7 a. m. call for a chimney fire at the home of Clifton Scott, Fairlee.

During the month alarms were answered for four chimneys, three houses, one grass, one oil stove and one furnace.

Four Kent Herds High In Maryland Holstein Ranks

Four Kent County Holstein dairy herds rated high at the Maryland State Holstein Association convention and sale last week in suburban Baltimore. Two owners, Edwin C. Fry and Richard S. Tarbutton, were trophy winners.

In the 50-cows-and-over division, Mr. Fry's herd of 145 tied for first with the herd from Maryland State Reformatory, each with a 573 fat average. In this category, the herd of Carl C. Leonard, Kennedyville, was fourth. The 27-cow herd had a fat average of 569.

In the under-50-cow division, Mr. Tarbutton's herd of 38, was first, averaging 659 in fat. These three herds were recorded by the Dairy Herd Improvement Register.

Third among the high ten herds under the Maryland Dairy Herd Improvement Association was W. Franklin Moffett, Chestertown, with a 596 fat average. In this category, the Tarbutton herd was ninth with a 585 average.

Mr. Tarbutton was elected vice president of the Maryland Holstein Association.

Jarman Legion Units At Sacred Heart Sunday

Members of the Frank M. Jarman American Legion Post No. 36 and Auxiliary will observe "Four Chaplains Sunday" by attending the 11 p. m. services at Sacred Heart Church, Chestertown, next Sunday, February 7th.

Commander Wilson Cohey has urged all members, Legion and Auxiliary, to make an effort to attend.

Religious Emphasis Week, February 3-8, offers the American Legion Chaplain an opportunity to deliver talks before various community groups on the service of the Legion in advancing the cause of religious emphasis through the common bond of brotherhood and the patriotism demonstrated by the four chaplains 22 years ago.

"Four Chaplains Sunday" is in commemoration of the sacrifice of four chaplains during World War II. Of the many thrilling incidents of that war probably none stirred the nation more deeply than the story of four chaplains who went down with the torpedoed troopship—USS Dorchester—February 3, 1943, off Greenland.

These four—a Jewish rabbi, a Roman Catholic priest, and a Protestant minister—gave their lifebelts to four American soldiers and stood calmly on the sinking troop transport, their arms around one another's shoulders and their heads bowed in prayer.

Their sacrifice symbolizes the unity which has preserved and perpetuated America," stated Commander Cohey.

Scholarship Uniformity Being Urged

Uniformity of the state's college scholarship program and extension to five Catholic institutions is being urged again upon the Maryland Legislature.

The Maryland State Scholarship Board which appeared before the Senate Finance Committee has recommended that the total number of scholarships be increased from 641 to 842.

They also would be awarded the first time at Notre Dame of Maryland, Loyola, Mount St. Agnes, Mount St. Mary's and St. Joseph.

The amount of each scholarship would be the same as the tuition for other students instead of an arbitrary amount as at present.

The extra cost of the recommendations would be $538,000 a year. Gov. Taves has said he will provide the money in a supplemental budget if the legislature approves the revisions.

Several efforts in the past to unify the state scholarship aid failed and so did another to extend it to private colleges last year.

The five Catholic colleges and Hood, John Hopkins, Washington and Western Maryland each would be eligible for one full scholarship and two tuition grants from the 29 districts.

In spreading scholarships over the entire state, 28 for Carroll County residents at Western Maryland and 26 for Frederick County residents at Hood would be eliminated.

St. John's College, Maryland Institute and Peabody each would have 29 tuition only scholarships. This would eliminate full scholarships at Maryland Institute and St. John's.

The scholarship board also suggested removing the obligation of recipients of tuition grants at Hood, Peabody and St. John's to teach in the public schools for two years.

The teaching pledge is to be retained for those at the nine other colleges whose tuition, room and board is paid by the state.

Resignations Of 4 Teachers Accepted Here

The Kent County Board of Education has announced the acceptance of the resignations of three members of the county teaching staff—one at the end of February, the other two in June.

The resignation of Mrs. Jean Reinhold, Rock Hall Elementary, becomes effective on February 28 and a retired teacher, Mrs. Edna Faulkner, will replace her on March 1.

Effective June 30 are the resignations of Lanty Rose, Galena High, and Mrs. Joan Wise, Chestertown High.

The contract of school bus route 3, 1943, off Greenland, will be terminated June 30 and awarded to Albert Green, of Millington.

A First Aid Bulletin developed for use in the schools of the county has been adopted by the Board. The bulletin was prepared by a committee composed of the following: Elmer T. Hawkins, principal of the Rock Hall School; Stanley E. Wilson, vice-principal of the Millington Elementary; Galena High and Elementary; and Robert J. Johnson, supervisor of transportation and high schools. Prior to its adoption, the bulletin received the endorsement of Dr. Anderson F. Whitsitt, Deputy State and Kent County Health Officer, and Dr. Robert W. Farr, examining physician for the Kent County Board of Education.

PORT MORESBY, New Guinea (AP)—Triplets born recently near Wabag, in the Western Highlands of New Guinea, have been named by numbers. The parents named the three boys Namba Wan, Namba Tu and Namba Tri—pidgin English for No. 1, 2 and 3.

Suspended Sentences, Probation Decreed In 7 Circuit Court Cases

Last week Kent County's Circuit Court found three defendants guilty in six cases, while all three drew suspended sentences and probation periods.

In a seventh case, William Frisby Thomas was found guilty of unlawfully operating a motor vehicle while his privilege was suspended, refused, or revoked. He drew a six-month suspended sentence with one year probation, in addition to a $150 fine.

George Henry States, in the only jury trial, was found guilty in two cases of assault and battery and had a three year sentence converted to probation for the same period. Medical expenses for Herbert Naundorf and Maynard Hague, as well as a $250 fine, were imposed on States, who pleaded guilty in each case. The sentences were to be concurrent.

Another assault and battery case drew a three year suspended sentence for Susie Briscoe, who was found guilty on a charge involving the cutting of Harold Lucas, over her plea of not guilty. Court costs and medical expenses as well as three years probation for Lucas were added to the sentence imposed by Judge George B. Rasin, Jr., who heard the case.

Howard Willis, who pleaded guilty in each of three larceny cases involving property stolen in the Betterton-Worton Creek area, was ordered by the Court to go to Florida under supervision of the Maryland Department of Parole and Probation, and accept employment from C. E. Sampson at the Miami Military Academy. Willis's six-month sentence was suspended on this condition, and he leaves tomorrow for Florida to carry out this sentence.

He was the last of a trio to be tried for the theft of goods belonging to James William Corrigan, Donald W. Dickie, both of Betterton, and Worton Creek Marina.

Pre-sentence investigation is being made in the same case of Terry Francis Coleman, who along with James W. Kimble, was tried and found guilty of larceny on December 30. Kimble is now serving a five-year term in the Maryland House of Correction as a result of the larceny case.

Council members heard the Institute's secretary-treasurer, John L. Ward, and its director, Donald J. Shank, review the philanthropic organization's first year and forecast a broadening activity in 1965. Grants amounting to more than $150,000 have been made to date to advance the educational, cultural, and economic development of the Eastern Shore, according to Mr. Ward.

Future meetings will be held quarterly with each session convening in a different county seat. At Easton expressed interest in and a willingness to participate in day-long meetings if the agenda requires it.

Formation of the Eastern Shore Community Council was announced January 25 by Institute President Miles who said the advisory board will provide guidance to the officers and staff of the Institute and help to establish a continuing communication and consultation among civic leaders in the area.

Council membership was drawn from more than 250 names placed in nomination by some sixty Shore community leaders attending a recent Wye Institute economic conference at Great Oak. Although delegates from each of the nine Shore counties are included on the roster, no attempt was made to balance membership by county line or community population.
